

OUR MISSION

The goal with EMTL is simple—to reach people and provoke thinking and understanding around planetary stewardship, and to present performances at minimal or no cost to the audience, ensuring that children, families, and individuals can participate without barriers. EMTL is an inclusive experience where art and science together inspire care, connection, and action for the future of our planet.

EARTH MUSIC THEATER LIVE FEATURING STEVE THOMAS' GUITARSCAPES AND FOLKTALES & FUSIONS

WELCOME TO EARTH MUSIC THEATER LIVE

We believe deeply that both the arts and STEM—science, technology, engineering, and math—are essential to our shared future. Earth Music Theater Live (EMTL) was born from that conviction. It is a multidisciplinary performance that unites live music, astronaut imagery, and spoken word to awaken curiosity and compassion. By merging artistic expression with scientific perspective, EMTL invites audiences to experience Earth as both a wonder of nature and a shared responsibility.

EAR-BENDING SONICS

The EMTL ensemble features world-class musicians who weave together genre-straddling music and immersive soundscapes that evolve in real time with astronaut imagery. It is a concert experience that blurs the boundaries between live performance, film, and science communication.

EARTH MOVIES

Filmmaker and space educator Dan Barstow, Director of Earth MusicTheater.org, has broken new ground with creative exploration of visually compelling views of Earth from space. His work transforms breathtaking astronaut photography captured aboard the International Space Station into cinematic journeys across the planet's deserts, oceans, forests, and atmospheric wonders. ## ART AND SCIENCE MATTER

From space, there are no borders—only one interconnected planet. The astronaut imagery in EMTL reminds us of this truth, while the music transcends genre and culture to reflect the unity of our shared world. The same creativity that fuels artistic expression also propels scientific discovery. When these forces unite, they inspire the awareness, curiosity, and stewardship our times demand.
